

Dear participants and guests of the International Forum 'Eurasian Educational Dialogue',

The forum is an authoritative discussion platform for teachers, scientists and experts in the field of education from Russian regions and foreign countries.

The theme of the forthcoming forum is of particular relevance in the context of activities of the Federal Service for Supervision in Education and Science.

Significant measures have been taken recently in our country to improve tools and technologies of education quality assessment. Moreover, in order to develop particular educational institutions and education systems in general an emphasis is made on effective management decisions based on education quality assessment. Traditionally there are debatable issues related to interpreting learning achievements, changing technologies and practices of the education process aimed to achieve specific results.

I wish the Forum participants success and fruitful work!

Sergey Kravtsov

Head of the Federal Service for Supervision in Education and Science
